Parking ruling not so new

By CATHERINE ANN VELASCO
Campus editor

The surprise announcement of 24-hour enforcement of campus parking lots is causing a bit of a ruckus.

But, an even bigger surprise may be that an ad-hoc committee actually changed the parking rules a year ago, according to Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs.

The new rule was approved a year ago, but was never enforced and the signs have never been changed, Williams said.

But, on the brighter side, Tom Larson, campus police chief said the 24-hour enforcement will not begin in certain parking lots until the signs are put up next spring.

Presently, most student-designated parking lots have 24-hour permit parking signs and those lots will be enforced. He said the lots that do not indicate 24-hour permit parking will not be enforced until spring semester.

Larson said most of the lots without 24-hour enforcement signs are staff parking lots which are enforced 7 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Enrollment cutoff probable

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Administration editor

With Eastern's 1988 summer enrollment figures at an all-time high and an increase in enrollment expected this semester, university officials are already considering an admission cutoff date for the spring semester.

Eastern's office of planning and budget analysis released the final headcount figures for the summer semester Monday. A total of 4,274 students were enrolled in classes at Eastern during the 1988 summer semester, an increase of 141 students from 1987.

Director of Admissions Dale Wolf said anytime there is an enrollment increase from a previous year, admission cutoff dates must be considered.

"We're constantly looking at enrollment figures and the number of applications coming in to see if we need to close admissions," Wolf said.

Summer enrollments

Admissions for the 1988 spring and summer semesters were closed for the first time in Eastern's history this year. Admissions for the 1988 fall semester were closed in early December.

Wolf said although it is more common to cutoff admissions for the fall semester because of the large incoming freshman class, the spring and summer semester also have to be monitored because students can continue into other semesters and affect total enrollment figures.

"Based on what has happened in the

The ad-hoc committee consisted of students, faculty, administration and Larson, who made the decision based on research comparing Eastern's parking policy to other universities, Larson said.

The concept "user fee" was the main reason for 24-hour enforcement in all parking lots. Larson said reasoning behind the "user fee" is if a car uses a lot, it should pay for it.

Williams said an automobile could do damage to a lot at 8 p.m. as well as at 8 a.m. Thus, people who use the lots must pay for that privilege.

Larson noted that a night-time student may use the lot more than a day-time student so he should also pay for maintenance, repairs and building of parking lots.

"It doesn't matter when you use it, but that you use it," Larson said.

He noted that the user fee concept is used with speeding tickets in the state. If a person speeds and is ticketed, part of the ticket fee is spent for police training. If a citizen doesn't speed he doesn't pay for training of police.

City council to vote on tax increase to pay its bills

By JEFF MADSEN
City editor

The Charleston City Council will consider approving one of the largest tax levies ever Tuesday in order to bail the city out of financial jeopardy.

Charleston Finance Commissioner John Winnett said the City Council will consider a 19 percent tax levy — one of the largest in the city's history. The extensions for the proposed levy total $1,632,732.

"The city hasn't got enough money to pay its bills and we're about $455,000 in the red," Winnett said Monday. "We've cut back a lot in the last four years, but it hasn't been enough."

The city council will conduct a public hearing prior to the meeting at 7 p.m. in the council chambers.

Winnett said the catalyst for the levy is a consistent increase in the city's Blue Cross/Blue Shield insurance policy. Over the past eight years, the policy has increased $320,000. The increase spurred several citywide cutbacks, but Winnett said the cutbacks haven't done enough to salvage the city's financial situation.

Charleston Streets Commissioner Wayne Lanman, who will challenge Mayor Murray Choate for the mayor's job this spring, echoed Winnett's sentiments.

"It's either that (approve the tax levy) or not have any insurance, one of the two," Lanman said. "Right now, unless we have this increase, it (the city's financial status) is not going to be in the best of shape."

Choate could not be reached for comment.

Lanman said part of his mayoral platform will include a tax increase to at least temporarily brighten the city's financial future.

"We're going to have a tax increase," he said. "We've got to bring a little balance into the picture. Then if the budget grows, we can always decrease."

In September 1987, the council approved a $1,374,686 tax levy to defray expenses for the 1987-88 fiscal year. The levy was implemented against all taxable property in Charleston. At that time, a property tax levy had not been increased since 1984.

State Fair attendance down

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Nearly 913,000 people attended the Illinois State Fair this year, a drop of more than 100,000 from the previous year, officials announced Monday.

Hot weather has been blamed for the drop in attendance at the 11-day exposition, which ended Sunday.

Plane makes safe emergency stop

CHICAGO (AP) — A chartered 727 jet carrying 80 reporters covering the Republican presidential nominee George Bush was forced to dump fuel before making an emergency landing Monday at O'Hare International Airport, officials said.

"It's taxiing to the terminal. There were no reports of injuries," said a supervisor at the O'Hare tower who declined to be identified.

He said the plane landed without incident at 2:48 p.m., CDT. He was uncertain how far out of Chicago the aircraft was when it first developed problems.

"They took off and they had a bad flap indicator," said Mort Edelstein, spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration.

The reporters had covered the vice president's campaign stop in Chicago, and were flying to Bush's next campaign stop in Spokane, Wash., authorities said.

Edelstein said the decision to dump fuel while the plane circled over Lake Michigan preparing for and approach to O'Hare was a "routine thing."

"It's a precaution. When you make an emergency landing you don't want to come in loaded, heavy with fuel," Edelstein said. The plane was a Boeing 727 chartered from Key Air, based in Rosslyn, Va., said Mike Compton, a spokesman for Bush's Washington campaign office.

"It went back to Chicago. They have mechanics there. Chicago who are going to work on the plane," she said. "At the same time, another plane will be sent from Philadelphia. The news media will leave whichever plane is ready first."

The press plane was bound for Bush's next event in Spokane, she said.

Garbage in yards now regulated

By JEFF MADSEN
City editor

If you don't keep your yard clean, you're going to end up paying for it in the long run.

A new city nuisance code allows the Charleston Building and Zoning Enforcement officer to issue tickets at any residence where he might find garbage strewn across the lawn, or cars parked in the yard.

The tickets, which will be issued on the spot, cost the offender $40. Twenty-one of those dollars will go to the city of Charleston, while the remainder covers court costs.

"This will more or less be handled like a speeding ticket," said Jeffrey Finley, Charleston building and zoning enforcement officer. "The person has the right to go to court and defend himself or just pay the fine and skip that (court date)."

The new ordinance not only holds the property owner liable, but the tenant as well.

"Prior to this, our ordinance allowed us only to hold the owner responsible. This ordinance will hold the tenant equally responsible with the owner," Finley said.

The code applies to garbage, rubbish, weeds and junk. Finley said cars parked in yards are also considered as a violation of the nuisance ordinance.

"This (ordinance) covers just about anything that shouldn't be there. Mainly, this is for people who should have known better in the first place," he said.

The tickets, which can also be issued by police officers and the Charleston Fire Chief, will be issued by individual discretion, Finley said.

"If we feel the person should get the ticket, we'll write one up. But if we think a warning letter is better, we'll write a

BOG to discuss faculty salary negotiations

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Administration editor

The Board of Governors will meet Tuesday to discuss faculty and salary negotiations that are currently underway at the five universities it governs.

Ronald Messina, BOG vice chancellor, said Monday that the board will hear an update on the collective bargaining negotiations for faculty and staff at Western Illinois University, Northeastern Illinois University, Chicago State University, Governors State University and Eastern.

Messina said although no settlements have been reached yet, he expects an agreement with the faculty union, University Professionals of Illinois, in the near future.

"Since we only have to deal with one faculty union for the entire system, we usually reach an agreement sooner than with the civil service unions," Messina said. Faculty salary agreements have traditionally been reached by mid-September.

He said that agreements with the 20 various civil service unions will probably be made over a period of time.

Nearly 100 members from two of Eastern's civil service unions, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Locals 1271 and 981, rallied for a salary increase at a July 28 BOG meeting on Eastern's campus.

Karin Burrus, president of AFSCME Local 1271, said the informational rally was a way to demonstrate just how bad the pay situation is at Eastern. The union represents 250 clerical and technical employees at Eastern.

Figures from the Illinois Board of Higher Education show that clerical salaries at Eastern are the lowest of any state university and over 50 percent lower than state civil service salaries on average.

A $65 million allocation from the Illinois General Assembly allows for a 5.7 percent increase in faculty and staff salaries at all Illinois Universities. But Burrus says that isn't enough to make up for two years without any increases.

However, Messina said although the allocation provides for a 5.7 percent increase, that amount may not be offered or accepted. "Salary increase amounts are decided through bargaining," he said.

Pam Meyer, BOG spokesperson, said although the board was already aware of the situation, the July 28 rally was a legal way for the employees to express their concerns.

As of Monday, Messina was not aware of a similar rally planned for Tuesday's BOG meeting at the Holiday Inn O'Hare/Kennedy in Rosemont. He did say the meeting would be conducted in closed session pursuant to Section 2 of the Illinois Open Meetings Act which allows closed meetings for "collective negotiation matters between public employers and their employees or representatives."

Meyer said it is the board's practice not to elaborate on the proceedings of negotiations while they are ongoing.

Playboy coy about Quayle's vacation

CHICAGO (AP) — Playboy will publish "new comments" from a former female lobbyist about a vacation when she shared a cottage with vice-presidential candidate Dan Quayle and two other congressmen, the magazine's managing editor said Monday.

Paula Parkinson's remarks about events at the Florida cottage eight years ago will appear in text accompanying a "Women of Washington" pictorial in the November issue, said Playboy Managing Editor Jonathan Black. Parkinson will appear nude in the pictorial, he said.

Black declined to reveal the contents of Parkinson's new remarks, but Quayle has never been accused of intimacy with the former lobbyist.

"The article was originally written well in advance (of Quayle's selection by the GOP). She was mentioned in the story, but we had no plans to run her picture," said Black.

"After Quayle was picked, we got back in touch with her, did some additional work, and inserted the new material three days ago," he added.

Black declined to answer further questions about the article or its contents. The magazine is scheduled to be on the newsstand Oct. 1.

Parkinson first appeared nude in the magazine in 1980, several months after being identified as the Washington lobbyist who shared a cottage with Quayle and two other Republican congressmen, former Reps. Tom Railsback of Illinois and Thomas B. Evans of Delaware.

Parkinson said she had an affair with Evans, who later left the House. Quayle, now the junior senator from Indiana, has said he did not have an affair with Parkinson.

Water supply abundant despite arrival of students

By JEFF MADSEN
City editor

The unusually dry summer and the arrival of a projected 100,000 students to Charleston Monday reportedly will not threaten the city's water supply.

"It won't be any different from any other year," said Charleston Water Superintendent Dick Sherman. "Charleston itself, as far as water supply, is in pretty good shape."

Sherman noted that typically the most water is used during the last week of August and first weeks of September. He estimated with the arrival of students on campus, the demand for water should increase about 20 percent.

Sherman said he does not foresee a water restriction on Eastern or the city unless the heat wave continues for more than a month.

"As dry and hot as it is, it's not going to tax us too much," he said. "As of now, we don't have any water restriction on Eastern or Charleston."

On Thursday, when 100+ degree temperatures baked East Central Illinois, Sherman reported 1,812,000 gallons of water were pumped from the city's 400 acre reservoir near Lake Charleston. By next week, he expects that figure to jump to 2.5 million gallons per day.

Sherman acknowledged the reservoir level was down two inches, but added the reservoir has the capacity to provide the city with an adequate water supply for one year.

"If we go into the winter with a lack of moisture though, we'll be having some problems this spring," he said.

Space shuttle program credit to America

All systems are go for the space shuttle program, and space flight officials have said they expect to set a date in late September or early October for the first shuttle launch in 32 months.

Engineers and officials are to be commended for the hard work and progress made over the last 32 months which have resulted in the shuttle being once again ready for flight.

The success is a credit to the American space program and something of which all Americans should be proud.

The final successful test, a redundancy verification test, was performed Thursday. The $20 million test, which involved an intentionally flawed space shuttle booster rocket, made sure the booster's new joints contain superheated gases during launch.

It was a failure in this same system which caused the death of the seven-person crew of the space shuttle Challenger in 1986.

Engineers and officials have demonstrated a cautious, yet progress-oriented attitude during the last 32 months of relentless testing on the system—an attitude to be commended.

The death of the seven Shuttle crew members in 1986 was an unprecedented tragedy. And although we must never forget our seven heroes, we must also remember the cause for which they died.

America has always been a leader in space exploration and in technological advancement. We are a nation striving for progress and to be the best we can be.

And being the best means not giving up when things go wrong.

America must charge full speed ahead with the space shuttle program if we are to continue being a leader in space exploration. Setting a date for the next shuttle launch is a definite step in the right direction.

Tiny apartment has advantages

While most of you are taking advantage of the extra time today to spruce up your dorm rooms, houses or apartments, I thought you'd ought to hear about mine.

Each semester, it gets to be a big deal . . . you know, who's got the best room, the choicest apartment or the biggest house.

Well, this semester I'm not even a contender. My apartment, by far, has to be the smallest in Charleston. Or should I go so far as to say, the smallest in Coles County or maybe even all of Illinois.

Don't get me wrong, I like my apartment. I think it has a lot of . . . character. But no one else seems to think so. And the more I think about it, I can understand why. After all, three people in my apartment at once is pushing maximum density. I happen to know that you can cram at least four people in a dorm room before things start to get uncomfortable.

Now, I'm only 5'10" and if I laid across the width of my apartment, my head would touch one wall and I'd have to open the door to stretch my legs.

Put it this way, the toilet is in the middle of the kitchen, and so is the shower. This morning I tried the experiment. I can actually take a shower and fry some eggs on the stove at the same time. Quick, I can reach outside (while I'm showering) flip the eggs before they burn. Just when I'm washing my hair, I can reach outside again, turn off the flame, and by the time I'm out of the shower, got some hot (and somewhat burnt) eggs waiting for me on the stove—and they were cooked to order.

When I have friends over, I can see the claustrophobia building in their faces after about five minutes. They'll sit on my bed (which doubles as the living room in the daytime) and stare nervously at the walls. For some reason, they get to thinking the walls are moving in and they'll start sweating.

Then they'll look at the ceiling like it's coming down on top of them and they'll start getting fidgety, crawl toward the door.

After about five minutes and 20 seconds, they'll have had enough of the place and exclaim, "Come on, let's go out. I'll buy." It works every time.

I'm not complaining because it's so small, that's the reason I bought it. It's also dirt cheap. While I'm all spending money, I'm saving money. (As long as friends keep falling for that claustrophobia trick.)

But really, whether you've got a dorm room, house or apartment, it will be your home for the next months.

So make the most of it.

—Jeff Madsen is city editor for The Daily Eastern News.

Eastern senior in critical condition

An Eastern senior was still in critical condition Monday, recovering from head injuries she sustained when she was hit by a car Friday.

Donna L. Connelly, 21, of Hinsdale, was transported to the intensive care unit of Carle Hospital in Champaign. Hospital personnel said Connelly remains in critical condition, but refused to comment on the extent of her injuries.

A friend of Connelly, who asked not to be identified, said Connelly is unconscious and recovering from a broken leg and extensive head injuries.

Connelly's father, Michael, said he was not in a position to comment on his daughter's condition.

Connelly was hit while she was crossing Lincoln Avenue at 7th Street at about 11 a.m. Friday. Police said a car driven by Orval McNamer, 81, 1540 18th St., veered into the path of a truck traveling north on 7th street.

Police charged McNamer with disobeying a stop sign. Charleston Police Chief Maurice Johnson said Monday that no further charges had been filed against McNamer.

Eastern clubs have their day Enrollment

Eastern students have 30 organizations available to join to keep them busy this semester.

Tuesday, titled Organization Day, holds a purpose to get students involved on campus and introduce them to what is available on campus.

The people affiliated with the various organizations including the American Marketing Association, Student Publications and Young Republicans will be at tables from noon to 3 p.m. on the Library Quad.

Senate speaker Jane Clark said the band, "Front Runner" will provide music and free food and pop will be available for everyone attending Organization Day.

"It's a big recruitment event," she added.

Although a specific date for closing admissions has not been considered yet, Wolf said he would know more after the tenth-day enrollment roster is released Sept. 6.

"Then, if the enrollment is high and we have a lot of applications coming in, we will probably set a date to close admissions," he said.

New director has new ideas

MICHELLE ZAWIN
Staff Editor

Some new ideas for activities on campus have been running through the head of Eastern's new Student Activities Director David Milberg.

The Connecticut native said he wants to "find out what University students are up to."

"I have some good ideas for them," he said. "The main thing is to get them to stretch their imaginations by challenging them to do new things and places."

Milberg, a 1978 graduate of Iowa State University with a degree in horticulture, said he would like to see UB try to use some different facilities on campus and maybe book some blues and jazz groups.

Milberg said he questions that playing Top 40 groups continually at Eastern would draw the same audience every time.

"Success isn't just in the number of persons attending, but in providing for the different audiences on campus. We can't just program for those same students each time, but should reach everyone," he said.

He added that he would like to try a coffee house type setting with a folk singer or comedian.

Milberg said he feels UB has done a good job with programming.

Milberg was involved with programming music for an Iowa State University night club, "The Maintenance Shop."

He said national talent was brought in for a jazz and blues series, and he also co-produced the series for Iowa Public Television.

The series was later nationally and internationally syndicated.

After graduation he worked as a booking agent for concerts in Minneapolis and returned to Iowa State for a master's degree in education, focusing on student personnel, in 1982.

His career experience includes three years as director of student activities at Elmira College and three years as director of student affairs at Pace University, both in New York.

Milberg said he also has background with student government.

"My intention is to be involved at the meetings and offer advice and work with them closely," he said.

Another area in which Milberg hopes to work is the freshman orientation program.

"I would like to provide incoming students with more information than here's the campus," he said.

He would like to have workshops for new students about subjects including classroom survival skills and note taking.

"I would like to introduce them (new students) to some of the administration and faculty," Milberg added.

He said he has background in this area and would like to "lend some of that to what's going on."

Milberg said if it is possible, he would like to have a fall concert and maybe get back to doing a Homecoming concert because it is a "natural time" for one. He said he would like a spring concert also, along with the traditional Parent's Weekend concert.

Milberg said he is a "behind the scenes" kind of person.

David Milberg, the new student activities director, sits at his desk.

"I will always be available to work with the groups and to challenge and to advise, but not to be in the spotlight," he said.

He hopes to convey to the students that he expects their best form them and that they can come to him for advice and with their questions and he will give them "all the support he can muster."

Blue Jays stop White Sox

TORONTO (AP)—Dave Stieb struck out a career-high 12, matching Toronto's club record, and pitched a five-hitter Monday night as the Blue Jays beat the Chicago White Sox 6-3.

Stieb, 12-8, pitched his fifth complete game of the season and improved his career record against Chicago to 16-4. It was the fifth consecutive loss for the White Sox.

Stieb tied the Toronto knockout record set by Pete Vuckovich in 1977 and matched by Jim Clancy this year.

Sal Butera snapped a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning with a two-run homer, his first of the season and the eighth of his career. Two outs later, Jesse Barfield hit his 13th homer. Manny Lee's run scoring single later in the inning made it 6-2.

Jerry Reuss, 9-8, gave up eight hits and all six runs in 4-2/3 innings.

Chicago took a 2-0 lead in the second. One run scored on a fielding error by left fielder Lloyd Moseby and another on a fielding error by first baseman Fred McGriff.

McGriff tied the score in the bottom half of the inning with a two-run homer, his 28th of the year and first since Aug. 6.

Darryl Boston hit an RBI single in the sixth.

Astros trip Cubs 9-7 in 10

CHICAGO (AP)—Craig Biggio's first major league home run, a tie-breaking shot leading off the 10th inning, gave the Houston Astros a 9-7 comeback victory over the Cubs Monday night, despite two home runs and five runs batted in by Chicago's Damon Berryhill.

Biggio's homer came off Rich Gossage, 2-2, who gave up two runs in the ninth inning, when Houston tied the game 6-6. Gossage was booed lustily by the crowd of 30,417 at the second official night game at Wrigley Field.

Houston got another run in the 10th off Drew Hall as Gerald Young singled and scored on a three-base error by center fielder Mitch Webster. Glenn Davis then singled in the ninth run.

Juan Agosto, Houston's third pitcher, lifted his record to 10-0. He allowed one run in the 10th on a two-out balk that erased a flyout that would have ended the game. But Shawon Dunston then grounded out.

Rookie Berryhill's second home run of the game, a three-run shot in the bottom of the eighth, gave the Cubs a 6-4 lead. But Kevin Bass singled off Gossage to open the ninth and, with two outs, Billy Hatcher doubled. Rafael Ramirez followed with a two-run single.

Berryhill's eighth-inning homer came after Andre Dawson singled, was forced by Rafael Palmeiro, and third baseman Buddy Bell booted a grounder for an error. Berryhill, who had a two-run homer in the second inning of starter Mike Scott, hit a 2-0 pitch from Joaquin Andujar into the left-center field bleachers for his fourth homer of the season. It was the first five-RBI game for Berryhill.

Scott's two-run double keyed a four-run third inning for the Astros in the second official night game in Wrigley Field.

Scott was also the subject of a glove search by umpire Terry Tata in the bottom of the third. Law asked Tata to check the ball and Tata apparently found a scuff mark. He went out and also checked Scott's glove, which caused a brief argument between Tata and Houston manager Hal Lanier.

Eastern Booters beat NEMO 3-1 Sunday

LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

The Eastern soccer team began its pre-season schedule by defeating Northeast Missouri by a score of 3-1 Sunday.

Goals were scored by sophomore forward LeBaron Hollimon, senior forward Mark Noffert and senior forward Kevin Rogan.

"Overall, the whole team played well," said Panther soccer coach Cizo Mosnia. "(Junior fullback Greg) Muhr played an outstanding game."

Northeast Missouri is currently ranked at No. 2 in the Midwest in Division II.

The Panthers will be tested again Friday at Indiana University against the No. 2 team in the nation Indiana University.

"To defeat a team like Indiana would be a tremendous confidence boost to the team," said Mosnia.

Bears lose 17-9 to Dallas Cowboys

IRVING, Texas (AP)—Dallas' blawking defense created six turnovers Monday night, including Manny Hendrix's 34-yard interception return for a touchdown with 39 seconds left, to give the Cowboys a 17-9 NFL preseason victory over the Chicago Bears.

Dallas won its second consecutive preseason game, a feat the Cowboys hadn't accomplished since the 1985 season. Chicago dropped to 1-2.

The errorless Cowboys recovered four fumbles and intercepted two passes on the 100-degree evening before 47,796 fans and national television audience.

Linebacker Garth Jax's recovery of a Calvin Thomas fumble at the Dallas 5-yard line in the first period killed off Chicago's longest second-half threat.

Dan Zendejas' 47-yard field goal came after Victor Scott intercepted a Mike Tomczak pass at the Dallas 34.

Then came Hendrix's game-changing interception off Jim McMahon as the Bears' tried to Chicago led 9-7 at halftime when Herschel Walker's 54-yard touchdown run for the Cowboys.

Two plays after Walker's run gave Dallas a 7-0 lead in the second quarter, Chicago quarterback Jim McMahon hooked up with Thomas Sanders on an 86-yard scoring pass. The extra point failed after holder Tomczak had trouble with a low snap.

Kevin Butler's 29-yard field goal with 13 seconds left put the Bears up by two points at halftime.

Dallas starting quarterback Steve Pelluer left with a slight concussion in the second period after hitting only 2 of 9 passes for 20 yards. He was injured on a tackle by Chicago linebacker Dante Jones on the play before Walker's touchdown run.

McMahon played only the first half and hit 12 of 21 passes for 209 yards.

Walker had 7 carries for 75 yards in only two quarters.

Chicago defensive end William Perry, who missed most of training camp while undergoing treatment for an eating disorder, was on the sidelines in a snappy hat and sports coat. He will play in the last game of the preseason.

Arnold enters season as top quarterback

ROBB MONTGOMERY/Staff Photographer

Eric Arnold stretches before practice.

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Sports editor

No ifs, ands or buts about it.

When Eastern takes the field in Normal for its Sept. 3 opener against Illinois State, the reins of the offense will be in the hands of quarterback Eric Arnold.

Arnold, who started the final five games for the Panthers last season, entered training camp as the No. 1 quarterback after a strong challenge by backup Kurt Simon.

With the status that goes along with being the starter, comes the added pressure and responsibility.

The sophomore from Pekin said he feels "there's a little more (pressure) this year compared to last year. Both myself and the coaching staff have higher expectations."

Offensive coordinator Kit Cartwright thinks Arnold is up to the challenge and can meet those expectations.

"I think he worked very hard and has developed more arm strength. He's gotten better in all areas," Cartwright said. "Now it's just a matter of getting him mentally ready."

Arnold completed 92 out of 186 passes for 1,159 yards and three touchdowns. His best effort was against Gateway Conference champion Northern Iowa. He completed 19 of 37 passes for 285 yards and one touchdown.

The 6'5, 210-pounder also threw seven interceptions last season, something he would like to improve upon this season.

"I want to do better than last year," he said. "I want to cut down on interceptions and fumbles."

Arnold's chief competition has also become one of his best teachers and friends.

"He's (Simon) helped me the most,"

Arnold said. "There's no bitterness between us. Kurt has a competitive nature, but he's a good enough person that he won't give up. He just tries his best."

Arnold said the key to the Panthers' success offensively lies with the offense and its ability to open up holes and get the quarterback.

"I have a lot of confidence in our offensive line. It's going to be our strength this year."

Arnold said he would like to work on improving his quickness and recognizing coverages and making the right decisions.

It should not be a problem for Arnold, an accountancy/computer management major who has a 3.86 grade point average.

Even though Arnold is the starter, he knows if he doesn't perform, the coaching staff will lift him as they did his backup, Kurt Simon last season.

"If I wasn't moving the team, I'd be benched. The only pressure I feel is from myself wanting to do better."

Arnold has come a long way in his college career. During his senior year in high school he was recruited for both football and basketball.

He signed a scholarship to play basketball at Benedictine in Kansas, but changed his mind when Eastern offered him a football scholarship.

He spent his freshman season as a wide receiver and as the quarterback of the school's basketball team. When Coach Bob Spoo took over in 1987, he brought with him an emphasis on defense and a more balanced offense.

"Things didn't look very good at first, but a change in the coaching staff gave me the opportunity to prove myself," he said.

The Redbirds will get their first impression of Arnold in a week and a half.

Simon adjusts to role as backup quarterback

Confident he can fill in if needed as starter

Speculation and second-guessing about Kurt Simon's role on Eastern's football team has followed and perhaps hounded the quarterback since he lost his spot as starter midway through the 1987 season.

But the fifth-year senior would like to put the speculation to rest, saying he is comfortable with the niche he has with the Panthers this fall.

"My role on this team is backup quarterback," Simon said. "All I can do is accept it. I feel confident in my ability to fill in whenever I'm needed."

Simon, a Morris High School graduate who transferred to Eastern from the University of Hawaii, started at quarterback six games for the Panthers last season and threw for 819 yards.

But when the Eastern offense was having difficulty putting points on the scoreboard, redshirt freshman Eric Arnold stepped in and left Simon on the sidelines for the remainder of the campaign.

Simon, 5-11, 185 pounds, was impressive in spring practices, however, and raised questions about who would be calling signals this fall.

But Simon sustained an unfortunate setback at the end of May, when an appendectomy left him inactive for six weeks this summer.

Eastern offensive coordinator Kit Cartwright praised Simon's conditioning in coming back for

"One of Kurt's goals was to condition himself harder for this season. He has over-compensated for the surgery and is now full-go," he said.

Cartwright also noted there will be no misgivings among the Panthers if and when Simon gets his chance to start.

"This team respects both guys (Arnold and Simon)," Cartwright said. "Kurt is not a foreign leader to these guys and we try to prepare them equally in practices."

Simon said he isn't asking for sympathy, just continued support as Eastern's No. 2 quarterback.

"I chose to play quarterback and only one person can play that position," Simon said. "My attitude is as good as ever and I'll wait for my opportunity."

Looking ahead to Simon's role this fall, Cartwright wants him to be involved.

"I want Kurt to be extremely assignment competent," he said. "He needs to be ready to go at a moment's notice. Both guys are super and I think Kurt deserves to get a chance."

"We're not a two-quarterback system, but we won't have any qualms to switch if one guy is struggling," Cartwright said. "It's likely that a lot of other fifth-year seniors would have cashed it in if they were in Kurt's position, but he has too much invested to do that."

So has the fact that only Eric Arnold stands in the way of Kurt

Simon being the Panthers' quarterback made the two mortal enemies?

Arnold took a chance to parody the situation by interrupting

Simon during a post-practice interview Monday, reminding him to mention how much they hate each other.

"I feel I'm having a good fall and so is Eric," Simon said. "I get along great and I hope to push him this fall. It all goes to the team emphasis."
